PAT SHEEDY TELLS WHY GAMBLERS ARE IN STRAITS.

Politicians Are Taking Charge of the Game, of Which They Are Ignorant, and a Disposition to Overwork a Good Thing Held to Blame.

his last is the lesson in the lecture Patrick Sheedy reads to the gamblers and politicians of New York. Mr. Sheedy is gambler who has circled the globe, mpting Dame Fortune, and is the st-known man in the world wherever the card is pulled from the box, the elusive marble is spun on its merry way or Spanish monte is dealt on a Navajo blanket. He is an international authority on the laws of chance. In the first place Sheedy says gamblers are fools. If they weren't fools they wouldn't be gambiers. This is the way he puts it:

the road to success. Success, we'll eay, is at the south end. All the business men and professional men are headed Every blooming gambler is north. That may be a bit alle gorical, but you eatch my meaning. And the biggest fools of all the gamblers are those who are trying to do business New York at the present time. There is no money in it and the longer a man sticks to it the poorer he gets." Politicians to Blame.

Then he tells who is responsible for the condition of things:

"It isn't the gamblers who are running the gambling in New York now; it's the what I am going to tell you. When the politicians go into the gambling business or when the gamblers go into politics, writes himself down as an ass. The of politicians. It does the club no good evil-for too much of anything is an and the lawbreakers, in the long run evil-for too much of anything is an avil-will be wiped out, and then the men who know the business can engage in it and nobody will be harmed."

"If several gamblers that I know of would resign from the Democratic Club, Reasonable regulation is the remedy or if some of the law-abiding members

Rapid Transit was decidedly errotic, being up and down between 85 t-2 and 81-2, finally stiffening in the Pris hour to 85, a net loss of 3-4 per cent.

Burilington was the redepming feature in the early market and soon soured rapidly to 16, 3-1, a gain of 2 points, on a large demand, aggregating 10.00 to 12,000 shares. Manhattan, too, was buoyant, though it only recovered an opening decline of 3-4 per cent.

Trading in the steel stocks on the curb was continued in the certificates of the new Steel Trust.

The business in the steel group in the market was in fairly large volume, but the gains were only fractional.

Other strong features were Sugar, Tobacco, Rock Island and National Salt, with gains of 3-4, 11-1, 5-8 and 2-1-2 per cent.
